Gift to Non-Profit Helps Women, and Your Tax Bill

Atlanta (December 2009) – An end-of-year tax deductible gift to the Possible Woman Foundation International (PWFI) can help put a woman on the road to a better life. It can also be a gift to yourself, giving you a break on your taxes.

PWFI awards academic scholarships to women in need, giving them a second chance at higher education, a better life and the chance to pursue their dreams. Making a donation before December 31 of this year can help reduce your taxable income, which means a smaller tax bill next year.

"It's a great opportunity to help others while helping yourself," said Kathy Leggett Eldridge, chair of the PWFI board. "A donation can be made in the name of a business client, a family member, your company, yourself – essentially anyone who would appreciate the thoughtfulness and generosity behind your gift."

A 501(c)(3) organization, PWFI has provided more than $125,000 in scholarships since 2001, allowing recipients to return to school. These educational experiences, combined with mentoring, support and informational resources provided by PWFI volunteers give these women the opportunity to return to the workforce and advance professionally. Nothing is lost to overhead; 100% of donated funds go directly to scholarships.
